THE NEWSPAPER MAN
If you want a receipt for that popular mystery
Known to the world as a newspaper man,
Take all the wonderful persons in history,
Jumble them up in the best way you can:
The talent of Dickens portraying humanity,
Punch of Dempsey in landing a blow,
The wit of Mark Twain without his profanity,
Gift of a Belasco in staging a show
The boldness of Shaw in exposing quackery,
The push of a Pershing pursuing a foe,
The knowledge of Johnson, the satire of Thackeray,
Restraint of a Howells, the weirdness of Poe,
The force of Macaulay without his verbosity,
The craft of a Caesar in conquering Gaul,
The detail of Zola without his atrocity,
Firmness of faith like another St. Paul;
An Osler, a Mayo, a Flexner in medicine,
Grace of Pavlova conducting a dance,
In Physics and Einstein, or even an Edison,
The sardonic humor of Anatole France;
Much of tenacity, none of mendacity,
But honesty, courage, and great perspicacity.
Take of each element all that's reducible,
Mix them and stir them the best that you can.
Watch the result when you empty the crucible;
The residuum is a newspaper man.
(Author Unknown)

I haven't the slightest idea who the chap is who wrote the above poem, but I will gamble that he never received his inspiration from any Metropolitan city daily newspaper editor.

No sir! There is only one type of an editor such inspiration could have been received from, and that is the so called country editor who edits the weekly newspaper. Such an editor for instance as James E. Nugent, editor and publisher of the Sierra Valley News at Layton, Calif.

I'm a city man, born and brought up in one of the largest cities in New England, and I have read the large city newspapers all my life but for real, worthwhile editorials give me the small town weekly newspaper every time.

I look forward to receiving my copy of the Sierra Valley News each week with a great deal of interest. Frankly, I like "Jim" Nugent's editorials. "Jim" says what he means in plain English so that every reader always knows what "Jim" thinks in his heart. "Jim" never hems and haws and puts so much chocolate coating on his subject that you cannot understand what he is trying to tell you. "Jim" shoots straight from the shoulder and calls a spade a spade, and has the courage to tell the truth, even though it may not always bring an ecstasy of joy.

"Jim" Nugent is one of those old time editors who believes that God gave us mortals a conscience to use, and not to put in a safe deposit box and take out at rare intervals and look at when all's going well. He believes in assuming responsibility and everyone doing their bit. He openly declares war on all the drones of society; cheap politicians slippery dicks, crooked public servants, and rascals.

Here is what "Jim" has to say about Mothers' Day, in a recent editorial in the Sierra Valley News: One week from next Sunday is set apart as "Mothers' Day," and it is perhaps a good thought, but it should not be commercialized. Every day should be a "mothers' day," for those whose maternal ancestry regard for anything mother should be sacred. Every adult has reached maturity through the sacrifice of a mother and a man or woman who has no respect for her is less than a man or woman. It

Lakes Still Frozen Over At Lassen National Park

REDDING, Cal., May 11—(CPS)—Although the trout fishing season is open, there is no fishing in Lassen Volcanic national park.

Reason is all the park lakes are still frozen over. Park officials believe it will be June before fishing will be possible. Last year, two of the lakes didn't thaw out until July.

The Cree and Northern Algonquin Indians have no chiefs.

KNIGHTS HOLD ANNUAL ROLL CALL SERVICES

High Dignitaries From California and Nevada Make Impressive Addresses

One of the largest crowds ever gathered for a fraternal program was on hand last Friday evening at Odd Fellows Hall for the Summit Lodge, Knights of Pythias Annual Roll Call Services. The crowd was so great, that many were obliged to stand up during the program.

Melville Z. Ellis, Grand Chancellor of the Knights of Pythias, made the principal address of the evening. His subject was—"Fear, or the Lossness of the Soul." His address was most impressive and highly enjoyed by those present.

Grand Vice Chancellor Maestretti of Nevada came in place of Grand Chancellor Balliet, and gave a very interesting talk. Grand Chancellor Balliet sent a letter which was read to the audience, the subject of which was—"Save the Boys."

Grand Manager of the Pythian Sisters, Mrs. Rachel Robertson of Long Beach, Calif., was also present and gave an interesting address.

Supreme Representative N. E. Wilson of Nevada also gave a very fine talk.

The local Knights presented 300 bouquets to the ladies present.

Other interesting items on the program were: a recitation by Mrs. M. J. Moore; songs by Mrs. Dan Smith and Rev. P. H. Willis. Also singing by the Wyethia Choral.

Grand Chancellor M. Z. Ellis congratulated the lodge as being one of the finest in California.

The program was arranged by William M. Englehart, District Deputy Grand Chancellor for District No. 9, who was the program chairman for the evening.

A special feature of the evening was the receipt of numerous letters from members of Summit Lodge who are scattered all over the country and who were unable to be present for the annual roll call.

HIS AUNT SHRIEKS WHEN SHE SEES HIM KILLED ON SCREEN

When Clark Gable first "died" on the screen, his aunt witnessed the picture in a theatre, and let out a scream which caused a mild riot.

His Aunt Mary Ella Dunlap of Hopedale, Ohio, seldom attends theatres, but when her nephew became a leading screen figure, she attended the showing of one of his early pictures. Gable learned in a letter he received during the filming of "No Man of Her Own," the current attraction at the Donner Theatre Sunday night.

In the picture, when Gable was shot down, his aunt leaped up in her seat and screamed, "They got my boy!"

The many friends of Mrs. J. B. Maxson will be glad to hear that she is very much improved.

FISHING SEASON ON TRUCKEE RIVER OPENS MONDAY

Local Fishermen All Set And Ready To Go As Opening Days Draw Near

The long looked for day, the opening of the fishing season on the Truckee River, will soon be here. The season opens next Monday, May 15th.

For weeks the fishermen of the region have been looking forward to May 15th. For weeks they have been dreaming of the song of the reel and the battle between the trout and the fisherman.

Fishing has long been the favorite prescription of business and professional men to keep fit and fine, and it offers one of the best means of relaxation.

According to the opinions of some of the local fishermen, conditions on the Truckee River are ideal, and exceptional good fishing is anticipated.

"Slim" Ellert, of the Truckee Sport Shop when asked by a representative of the Truckee Republican what he thought stated—"Present indications are very favorable. I believe—if the weather conditions do not change—that there will be some fine catches made on next Monday. Bait fishing ought to be very good."

Another dean of fishermen in this region—A. Bianchi—who fishes practically every day in the summer months, stated—"The river looks good to me. I believe that there will be some fine fishing as soon as the season opens up."

Despite the heavy fall of snow during the winter season, the Truckee River is not so high as last year at this time, and this is a favorable sign for good fishing.

Mothers' Day Recipe

By Rose Bennington

Take a cup brimming over with kindness;
Add a dash of good humor and wit;
And a generous helping of blindness;
Will not hurt the texture a bit!
Loving care will furnish the sweetness;
Compassion will give the right shine.
Stir these things together with neatness,
And you'll have a dear mother—like mine!

52,000 CASES OF BEER STRONGER THAN 3.2

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 11—(CPS)—Not all beer is three-point-two.

That's the reason 52,000 cases of German-made beer are slowly aging outside the 12-mile limit off the coast near here. It was shipped several weeks ago in time to cash in on the expected shortage during the early days of legalization.

Inspectors found it was stronger than the legal 3.2, and cannot be landed. Steamship officials do not want to haul it back.

COUNTY PASSES BEER ORDINANCE EFFECTIVE JUNE 15

Prohibits Selling Any Alcoholic Beverage To Any Minor Under Nineteen Years of Age

The Nevada County Board of Supervisors have passed a new ordinance regulating the sale of beer in Nevada County.

This new ordinance becomes effective on June 15, 1933.

A county fee of $10.00 per annum, or portion thereof for each off sale, and $12.50 per quarter for each on sale license has been adopted.

Section No. 18 of the Ordinance prohibits the sale of any alcoholic beverage to any minor under nineteen years of age.

A complete copy of the ordinance appears elsewhere in this issue of the Truckee Republican, and our readers are urged to read it over carefully and become familiar with this new law.

Local business men are showing considerable consternation over Section 2 and Section 3 of the Ordinance which they seem to think is very much out of order and closely encroaching on constitutional rights. Just why an individual should be obliged to purchase a meal from an on sale distributor before he can secure a glass of beer, is rather difficult to understand. Such drastic regulations by the county would seem to indicate that it is possible that members of the board of supervisors are not quite familiar with either constitutional law or the new Federal beer act.

It looks as though the board of supervisors have been either ill advised in connection with the drafting of the ordinance or that they do not realize that they have subjected themselves to considerable criticism.

PIGEON AND TOM CAT ARE UNUSUAL PALS

RICHMOND, Cal., May 11—(CPS)—A pigeon that eats and sleeps with a big tom cat is a curiosity here.

The bird and the cat are owned by James G. Yale, who observed that the pigeon insisted on eating out of the cat's bowl of milk.

At night the pigeon cuddles up against the big cat and goes fast asleep. Yale found the pigeon in his yard after it had been struck on the head. He thinks it must have been affected mentally.

ONE INJURED IN A THREE CAR CRASH

Car Skids In Front Of Two Other Cars On Victory Highway Five Miles East Of Truckee

One woman, name unknown, received slight head injuries last Sunday night when three cars came together on the Victory Highway, about five miles east of Truckee. The injured woman was in a Hudson car driven by George C. Schanadel Jr. of 702 East 23rd Street, Oakland.

According to a report of the accident, one of the three cars, a Hudson, a Ford and a Studebaker, attempted to pass the other and skidded in front of not only the car it was trying to pass but a car coming from the opposite direction as well.

The three cars, the Ford driven by Jack Swoboda of 103 1/2 South Anapa Street, Ventura, Cal. and the Studebaker driven by R. H. Edrington of 717 West Mitchellmore Street Santa Barbara, Cal. and the Hudson driven by George S. Schanadel Jr. of Oakland, were all wrecked and had to be towed to local garages for repairs.

Here's St. Patrick's Day Rose

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 11—(CPS)—If it had bloomed on St. Patrick's Day, the color of this rose might be explained.

It is a bright green, the size of a Cecil Breuner, and perfectly formed.

The green rose has been blooming at the home of William C. Christie for the last 44 years, and was raised from a slip.

Auto tourists to Canada last year declined by about 400,00.

GREEN AND RED LIGHTS

Philosophic Will Rogers quotes the equally philosophic and more grammatical Walter Lippmann as telling him that "the green lights are with us, and the only thing that can stop us again is prosperity."

That isn't a paradox, either. As Will himself observes, "there is nothing that sets a nation as far back in civilization as prosperity."

In prosperous times we pile up debts we have to pay off in depression times, when the payment is hardest. In prosperity we get lazy and careless and wasteful and selfish and mean. In prosperity we cultivate folly and vice. Then when we get what is coming to us, we begin to develop virtue and decency and common sense, through which we regain the prosperity we crave. The greater the prosperity, the worse fix we're in when the wave subsides. The greater the depression—as long as it doesn't destroy us altogether—the more good it does us.

And yet, human nature being so perverse and the human mind so illogical, when we float up on the next prosperity wave we'll probably be just as silly as ever.

If we were wise, we would pray the old prayer, "Neither riches nor poverty give me, O Lord."

EMPLOYMENT FOR LAWYERS

"Law business should soon boom as a result of the Roosevelt legislative program," writes a Washington correspondent. "Nearly every bill passed so far will result in employment of attorneys by those who wish to take advantage of the legislation."

New enactments must provide quite a lot of work for lawyers at Washington, right now. The mere preparation of so great a mass of legislation must call for an army of attorneys. And that is nothing compared with the local requirements for interpretation and application when the measures become effective.

There is also a natural increase of legal activity resulting from so many business failures, bank mergers, etc. And as business revives, there will be a great mass of new incorporations and business ventures of all kinds, with their attendant demand for legal service.

The lawyers have had slim picking the last few years. They should take heart. They may be coming into fat years again.

MEN AND MOUNTAINS

We are all getting over the idea that man is a new-comer on earth. While scientists have been extending the age of the earth itself, they have also been extending the history of the human race. Evidence accumulates that we have been here for a period measured not in thousands of years merely, but in hundreds of thousands or millions.

Man has even seen the rise of mountain systems, says Dr. Hellmut de Terra, leader of the Yale expedition to northern India. He found there in the highlands of the Himalayas, human relics—spearheads, scrapers and other implements—along with the mammoth bones dating back, he estimated, to a period 40,000 to 60,000 years ago. Thus men were hunting the mammoth for food in the later stages of that great upheaval which reared the highest mountain range in the world.

Man is a tough, enduring animal. The huge, powerful mammoth succumbed. The stone-age man contemporary with him survived, and has learned to tunnel through mountains and fly over them.

Sociologically, though, says Dr. Matthew Luckiesh, research director of the General Electric Company, we are still in the stone age. We have not yet adapted ourselves to civilized life. Economically, we are like our shaggy old grandfathers back there in the Ice Age hunting with rude spears. We have conquered the other animals, we have conquered nature, but we have not learned to manage ourselves and our business affairs.

WAR-HATING STUDENTS

The young men of the Oxford Union started something when they declared they would not go to war for England under any circumstances. There is an epidemic of similar declarations among students in this country now.

At Brown university 300 students pledged themselves never to bear arms for their country unless it is invaded. Their newspaper starts a "war against war."

At Columbia University a student poll indicated that only 8 per cent would enlist in any war. Over half the students declared they would serve only if the country were invaded. A good many recorded willingness to suffer imprisonment rather than fight. They said that "war can never be justified."

At Stanford University a group pledged itself to fight any conscription. Its members regard it as "unnecessary and absurd to settle political or economic disputes between nation by violence," and "will refuse to be conscripted into any war whatsoever."

These and other idealistic outbursts are viewed with varying emotions by outsiders. There is sober discussion as to whether the rebels are defying the Constitution of the United States. There is alarm at the evidence of pacifism. Communistic influence is suspected. In other sectors the peace notions of the young men are regarded as mere youthful ravings. The boys must do something to show their dislike of authority. It is the spring. They will get over it.

A funny thing about both the alarmed critics and the amused cynics is their blindness to the simple fact that the students are taking the same attitude as their government. The United States has already pledged itself against war as an instrument of national policy and has guaranteed not to go to war except in self-defense. Would anyone want the youth of the land to question their government's sincerity?

THE NOMAD LIFE

The social basis of the nomad's life is their tent or yurt. The yurt is round in shape, like a beehive or a Buddhist stupa, from twenty to twenty-five feet in diameter and perhaps ten to twelve feet high. Unlike most other tents, it is fixed without poles, ropes or pegs and once up stands firm as a rock, nor can all the winter gales that blow across the waste upset it. It is built in a very short time, men and women working together as soon as the parts are unpacked from the kneeling camels.

A frame of wooden trellis is fitted up in sections bound together with thongs of hide and over this is fixed the roof of willowrods. Over all are then hung thick felts, white when new, but growing black with time and wear, proof against the chilling winds and freezing showers of snow and rain that make the winter on the steppe. Inside the yurt has its trellis covered with rush mats and there is a roof flap which may be opened according to the varying wind. The door is made by a heavy frame of wood and is closed by a movable piece of felt-covered trellis, so that when it is shut the tent is inviolable to the winter cold.

Their furniture is simple and the housewives are little bothered by its care. There are perhaps two carved beds of wood, of that shape so reminiscent of the Homeric couch which I have described, painted in barbaric patterns of blue and red, strewn with white felts. At the back of the tent stand boxes in like way carved and painted, where are stored the heirlooms of the family, their little hoard of treasure and the balbicha's private store of precious things. She carries the keys traditionally at her girdle, or, more curiously at the end of one of her long plaits of black hair, while on the other plait hang ornaments of silver to balance them.

In front of this wall of boxes are the carpets where recline the way-faring guests, but when there is no guest they are prudently stored away that their colours may remain bright and unfaded. The floor is generally covered with felt or with old worn carpets, still of some beauty but woven very long ago in Bokhara or Samarkand. Only the middle space is bare earth, and here is the cooking fire between two iron staples from which will hang the common pot. Once the tent is up and the furniture arranged it will be the first duty of the younger women to light this fire, while the balbicha prepares the meat for the evening meal. A few sticks of thorn or saxaul are spread and the flame is started but wood is too scarce on the steppe to permit of the fuel being simply this sweet-smelling wood, so it is kept alight by argol, as they call the dried dung, which has a vile, pungent odour.

For clothes, the men wear a shirt of white linen, baggy trousers of linen or coarse brown camel-cloth tied with a cord round the middle, no socks, but long boots of soft leather, heel-less so that they thrust easily into their overshoes, which are religiously taken off on entering the yurt. Over all they wear a kind of long-sleeved dressing gown, a khalat, padded and made of stuff which varies with the riches of the wearer. A man of good family will wear a belt of beautiful beaten silver, very old and often of great value.

The women are clothed in much the same way, the very poor, like their menfolk, in shirt and trou-

DAILY SHOWER IS GOOD TONIC FOR YOUR SKIN

By JACQUELINE HUNT

DO THINGS seem topsy-turvy to you in the spring? First, you are lazy—then restless—romantic—then sad? It's spring fever and a pretty good sign that you need a tonic. Not the old-fashioned molasses and sulphur kind, but the stimulating, tonic effect of a cool shower bath. It does miraculous things to your skin and health and spirits.

Many women find that daily showers are an ideal way to keep clean as well as refreshed. How do you like your shower? Do you step under the sparkling drops of water to make you feel fresh and glowing and keep your warm, soapy bath until evening—or do you content yourself with the idea that your refreshing shower is sufficient? No bath is really cleansing unless a rich lather of soap has been scrubbed over the body. But your shower can be both cleansing and refreshing if you do it properly.

There are all sorts of new things to make the bath pleasant and refreshing as well as cleansing. There are the pure, delicately perfumed bars of bath soap with cute little sponge mitts into which the cakes may be slipped to allow a thorough lathering of your body. There are perfumed bath oils that are massaged into your skin and the excess rinsed away under a shower of warm water, or in a tub, and there are pretty brushes and wooden bowls filled with creamy bath soap.

Wet your body first and then soap it thoroughly from your ears to your toe-nails, then step back under the shower and rinse away the soap. You will need warm water for this purpose. After this, let the water run colder and colder until you are all a-tingle. Your skin will be cleansed as well as toned and stimulated, and you will be less likely to feel the pricklings of spring fever.

Another refreshing bath that helps stimulate and tone the skin is the salt bath. You can take it either in the tub or shower. It will help make your skin impervious to weather changes and it will give it strength and resistance when you make your first appearance in your bathing suit. If you take your salt bath in the tub, do it like this: Dissolve a package of table salt in one-third of a tub of water. Get into the briny water and scrub it all over your body. Finish by rubbing dry salt all over your wet body until your skin is pink and glowing. Finish with a rinse of clear, cool water.

Do not be afraid of giving your skin too much oil just now. It needs to be made soft and resilient and healthy, so that your first spring swim will not leave your skin chafed and dry and sunburned. For this reason, cold cream or olive oil soaps, plain olive oil and bath oils cannot be over-emphasized.

While your daily bath needs will add to your sense of well-being and to your good grooming, you may need more than cleanliness to prevent unpleasant body odors. Whether you think you need it or not, it is wise to apply a deodorant powder or liquid immediately after your bath; then you can go forth with the confident feeling that no matter how busy you are or how warm the day, you will be as fresh and attractive as spring flowers after the rain.

POLITICAL PARADE

By Homer L. Roberts
(California Press Service Writer)
Special to The Truckee Republican

They were defeated in an attempt to delay the state budget, and again in an attempt to jam through the state employees' salary cut bill without amendment.

The "youngsters" included Speaker Walter J. Little, Santa Monica, Lawrence Cobb and Don Field, Homer Roberts CONTROL. The assembly youngsters took a drubbing twice by their rural opponents and San Francisco. Los Angeles; Ray Robinson, Merced; Bill Knowland, Oakland and Ted Craig, Brea.

On the other side was the San Francisco delegation aided and abetted by the ruralites. It was the first defeat suffered by the Southern Californians since organizing the house 4 months ago.

PARTIES. Lieutenant Governor Frank F. Merriam showed his control over the senate when he slapped down the Jersperson primary bill. It would permit a voter to select any party ballot at the primary, regardless of the party with which he was registered.

If adopted, it would have permitted Democrats to vote for Senator Hiram W. Johnson at next year's primary election.

Senator Ralph Swing, on Merriam's orders, cast a "no" vote trying it, 20 to 20.

To save Merriam from casting the deciding vote several senators switched, and the bill was killed, 24 to 16.

REPORT. Little new evidence was contained in the long-awaited report of the senate committee investigating the Rolph administration. The chairman was Senator J. M. Inman, Sacramento.

The report dealt largely with testimony made at the various hearings.

Governor Rolph, spoiling for a chance to take a crack at Inman, said he might go "on the air" to make his reply.

ERROR. Purely by mistake, the governor signed a bill abolishing 40 state attorneys, many held by his close friends.

After the error was discovered, Rolph tried to get the bill back, but Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan said "no."

Later the governor said he intended to let the bill become a law without signing it, anyway.

ANNEX. The Burke state annex building in San Francisco is soon to become state property.

Rental paid by the state for this building was shown to be too costly, in the senate investigation some weeks ago.

Under the state's opinion, the building would have cost $550,000. Owners agreed to let it go for $320,000, and the assembly gave final passage to the senate bill calling for the purchase.

SNAPSHOTS. The state harbor commission can't run up a profit, says Attorney General U. S. Webb. . . . Otherwise the interstate commerce commission may investigate. . . . Raymond Haight, indicted on bribery charges in Los Angeles, was former state corporation commissioner. . . . He left when Rolph was inaugurated. . . . Five senators voted against confirming the governor's son, James Rolph III, as pilot commissioner. . . . But not enough to oust him. . . . Plans to junk the state civil service commission and thus oust William A. Brownrigg as director, failed in the assembly. . . . Edwin P. Werner was defeated for re-election as city attorney for Los Angeles.

In general, their costume is a long white linen shirt with wide open sleeves and a sarafan of velvet or camelcloth. On their wrists they wear heavy silver ornaments, and strings of coins often hang from their plaited hair.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 11—(CPS)—Tired and sleepy lawmakers, worn out by day and night sessions, fought their way slowly to adjournment this week.

Knotty problems such as taxation, budget making, water conservation and salary cuts were disposed of in short order, and the member who tried to extend his speech beyond 5 minutes got a lot of nasty looks from his colleagues.

Bitter fights and personal attacks marked the closing sessions, but they were largely the result of frayed nerves resulting from long hours of work with little sleep and hastily gulped meals.

BUDGET. The 1933-35 budget, including the $6,000,000 in increases added by the senate, went to the governor with the assembly's blessing, but not after a row that stood the lower house on its head.

Members of the ways and means committee wanted the assembly to refuse to concur in the senate increases. San Francisco and rural legislators banded together and shouted and voted down the proposal. As a result, the budget, totaling approximately $246,000,000, was sent to the governor.

The final document was $18,000,000 less than the budget submitted by Governor Rolph at the opening of the session.

COMPROMISE. The compromise Riley-Stewart tax plan was adopted by the assembly after another heated battle.

This paved the way for a special election early in June, after which the legislature will return to enact the necessary enabling legislation.

In its final form the plan provides for repeal of Amendment No. 1, returning $1,338,000,000 in public utility property to the common property tax rolls, effective in 1935; relief to counties by the state's assuming their burden of elementary and secondary school support, and a tax limitation on real and personal property not to exceed 25 per cent for state purposes.

WATER. A statewide water program costing $3,160,000,000 but which would be financed by revenue bonds and thus be self-supporting, was given approval through a constitutional amendment to be voted upon at the 1934 general election.

The measure was bitterly fought in the senate, but through the strategy of Senators Bradford S. Crittenden, Stockton; Will R. Sharkey, Martinez; John McColl, Redding, received final passage.

This action represented the first step toward a state water project after more than 10 years' study at a cost of $1,000,000.

FISHERMAN'S LUCK

By Edgar A. Guest

Ah, well, I say full many a day I've seen the big fish get away, And once in a remembered spring, I'd found once beauties on a string, And then (I'm sure) to jar my pride, Because a faulty knot I'd tied, The tether slipped and off they swam, Which proves possession's mostly sham.

But undiscouraged still I fish, Rejoicing when I catch a dish, And if my cast is short or long, Or if the line I thought was strong May break, still hopeful I return New wisdom from the stream to learn,

'Knowing that struggle as I may, Sometimes a fish will get away.

Though loss and disappointment burn, To life again I shall return, And all my strength and will employ

To catch my share of passing joy If ill-luck follows me awhile, Good fortune soon again may smile; Nor shall I long bemoaning stay The things of mine which get away.

I will not give my heart to gold Or stuff, uncertain, hard to hold; Or strings which break, or brittle rods,

'Gainst which there lie so many odds,

But I will lash my faith to joys Which neither time nor chance destroys,

And seek from wisdom, day by day Delights which cannot get away.

It was with a great deal of relief to the Hobart residents when definite word was given out that the mill would run. The Woods will commence operations soon as there will have to be enough logs in the mill pond by the first to start the mill. The company has received a guarantee that they will have fifteen cars of boxes a month. While this is not a full months work, it is enough to keep the men in the box factory busy most of the month.

NORDEN NEWS

By C. W. KRAMER

J. C. Lyon of Norden Grocery and postmaster was a recent visitor to Sacramento on business, he having motored down.

Mrs. William Seitz and daughter Evelyn are spending a week to fine advantage among friends in Sacramento. They plan to be gone ten days.

Recent residents of Norden to enjoy themselves among the fair maidens of Sacramento included T. E. Eversult and Andrew Pfeiffer.

Truckee proved to be the point of interest for Gustave "King" Sanders and John Sheriff Creasy of B&F 108 Tunnel Six when they spent a couple of days in town.

Fishing season opened with a bang at Norden when Joseph Casari of B&F 108 Tunnel Six made the prize catch of the week when he returned from a fishing trip along Yuba River west of Norden and landed a four pound lake trout. The trout resembles a locheven species. Casari advises all concerned that this is some record to shoot at for all comers in river fishing.

C. E. Church, a fireman of Roseville, came to Norden Fire Train and displaced fireman C. Van Epper who returned to his home at Roseville and today, owing to the unusual weather for May with the stubborn persistence of the storm, the Fire Train was disbanded and returned to Roseville, while Flanger were ordered out, a condition that put the old timers to thinking what has such occurred at this season of the year.

Snow sports have taken on renewed activity this week when several couples have been noted enjoying themselves at the Sierra Ski Club grounds when a recent heavy fall of snow added to the already well packed snow and made all snow sports excellent. Norden is noted for snow sports of every kind and is nearest to where the snow sports are held each July at Sugar Loaf near Lincoln Peak and hundreds come for this vacation.

J. E. Northey of B&F 108 Tunnel

Six, who spent several days with relatives at Roseville, returned on the train to have his hand bag catch afire while enroute and cause some excitement for a few minutes. Damage was nominal.

Chas. P. Stevens of B&F 108 Tunnel Six motored to Sacramento last week to be with his family.

John R. Sergeant Thorburn of B&F 108 Tunnel Six was a recent visitor to Reno among friends.

Lineman Lionel Snelling, with headquarters at Norden for the Southern Pacific Company for the past year was rushed to Truckee last Sunday when he became suddenly ill and Dr. Bernard rushed him to San Francisco for further attention at the General Hospital.

C. E. Hart, prominent young man of Norden spent last Friday in Folsom.

Wayne Libbee of B&F 108 Tunnel Six is sojourning among relatives and friends in Sacramento for a few days.

Halford L. Hall of B&F 108 Tunnel Six was missed off the hill several days, destination unknown.

Harvey L. Bush, who is now working near Hamilton, was a week end visitor with his family at Norden.

T. C. Gorman and William Dewitt, formerly of B&F 108 Tunnel Six, are now making their headquarters at Kennett and Weed respectively.

Third assistant Jesse P. Tilson of B&F 108 Tunnel Six made a hurried trip to Truckee one day last week on acute business.

Jim Leung of B&F 108 Tunnel Six received word of the sudden and untimely passing of his uncle Lim Leung, a prominent resident of San Francisco, early this week.

Mrs. W. G. Flickinger, accompanied by her daughter Beatrice and son James were week end visitors at Norden, they having come up from Sacramento where the children are in school. Mr. Flickinger is second trick towerman of Norden.

Such renewal license shall be issued in the same manner as provided for the issuance of the first license, but without any action on the part of the Board of Supervisors.

SECTION 15: The licensing board may upon its own motion and shall upon the verified complaint in writing of any person, investigate the action of any licensee and shall have power to temporarily suspend or permanently revoke a license issued hereunder for any of the following acts or omissions:

(a) Misrepresentation of a material fact by the applicant in obtaining a license.

SECTION 22: The conviction of any licensee or of any of his employees operating under such license, of a violation of this ordinance, shall automatically revoke the license.

SECTION 23: If any section, subsection, sentence, clause or phrase of this ordinance is for any reason held to be unconstitutional or invalid, such decision shall not affect the validity or constitutionality of the remaining portions of this ordinance. The Board of Supervisors hereby declare that it would have passed this ordinance and each section, subsection, sentence, clause or phrase thereof irrespective of the fact that one or more of the sections, subsections, sentences, clauses or phrases thereof be declared unconstitutional or invalid.

Plan Under Way To Beautify Highways Of Nevada County

By HOMER L. ROBERTS
(California Press Service Writer)
Special to The Truckee Republican
SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 11—
(CPS)—A tree-planting program to beautify the highways of Nevada county is being studied by the state legislature.

Under this program, proposed by the state division of highways and parks after a two-year study, the county's board of supervisors or planning commission would be asked to establish "beautification zones" along the highways.

"Such bodies should further be empowered to protect the zones from encroachment by nuisances which will prevent or detract from their proper developments," the report said.

Cities will be asked to survey, through the proper agencies, the approaches to various municipalities, with a view of removing automobile wrecking yards, dumps, unsightly service stations or hot dog stands, for the purpose of improving the view for visitors entering the city for the first time.

The report also urged that the present policy of tree planting be continued, that is, the individual or organization desiring trees along the highways bear the cost of planting and maintenance for the first year. After that the state will assume the cost.

"The average cost of planting trees is about $1.25 per tree," it continued, "and the cost of maintenance is about $1.00 a tree. It is necessary to water and cultivate the trees at least 5 years or more before they are established.

"It is also recommended the present program of planting and beautification at subways and overhead crossings be continued.

"Likewise the state division of highways should be given authority to acquire areas adjacent to the highway right of way as may be required at particular locations selected for recreational areas, picnic grounds, lookout points or public camps and authority given to spend money for proper development and upkeep."

"Mortals and Immortals" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon Sunday, May 14, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The Golden Text will be: "Thou art no more a servant, but a son; and if a son, then an heir of God through Christ" (Galatians 4:7). Other Bible citations will include: "Wherefore he saith, Awake thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee light" (Eph. 5:14).

The Lesson-Sermon also will include the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Science reveals material man as never the real being. The dream or belief goes on, whether our eyes are closed or open. For right reasoning there should be but one fact before the thought, namely, spiritual existence. In reality there is no other existence, since Life cannot be united to its unlikeness, mortality" (pp 491, 492).

FREAK EGGS LAID BY LOS ANGELES HEN

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 11—(CPS)—A hen that lays eggs that look like dumb-bells is owned by Hap Johnson of Belvedere Gardens.

The eggs are normal in size and of average weight. Their only difference from the average egg is that they are connected by a transparent elastic substance, and the shells are soft.

"Maybe she thinks she's working for a chain store," commented Johnson.
